*"This isn't a book, it's good vibes in disguise.
Just because you deserve a bright moment, that's why.
It's good vibes on the off-chance you've had a blah day, vibes to perk you right up, send the dark clouds away."*

Share this lighthearted yet sincere "book" with anyone in your life who could a cheerful hello—from a grandparent who lives far away, a college student missing home, a friend who could use a get-well gift, a relative serving overseas, a long-distance partner, to a loved one celebrating a birthday.

Katie Vernon is an illustrator who spent most of her life in the Midwest but whose heart belongs in the mountains. Much of her creative inspiration comes from being a florist, working with alpacas, and living on a bus. She loves working with inky paints and then arranging and adding detail digitally. Katie's art has appeared in Anthropologie, Hallmark, and the Washington Post.

We all matter much more than we realize. This is the story about finding something you care about and doing a little bit of good each day. Written by New York Times bestselling author Kobi Yamada and illustrated by award-winning artist Elise Hurst, it's a tale about the power we each have to create change when we decide the difference we want to make.

This enchanting book follows the exploration of a young boy as he encounters a gardener and listens to her stories of transforming a desolate piece of land into a lush natural oasis. It's a reminder that the ability to help heal and hold the world is in every one of us—and of the joy in doing, giving, and connecting. Because when you care about something, you owe it to yourself to give it your best. After all, the value of a life is measured by the lives it touches.

Kobi Yamada is the creator of many inspiring books, including New York Times bestselling What Do You Do With... series and Because I Had a Teacher. He is also the president of Compendium, a company of amazing people doing amazing things. Kobi feels grateful to share his life with his loving family in the Pacific Northwest where he can help good things grow.

"I think it's grand all the memories we make... and the magic we find along the way. Even on the absolutely ordinary days."

A grandparent has a way of bringing magic to everyday moments—from afternoons of adventure to evenings enjoying tasty treats. This adorable, illustrated gift book is a chance for a grandchild to thank Grandpa or Grandma for all the memories they've created together and the lessons they've shared along the way. Artwork of a bighearted bear and their grand-cub pairs with sweet rhymes to highlight this special intergenerational relationship. Written from the perspective of a grandchild, this touching book can be given as a celebratory gift by younger grandchildren, as a nostalgic gift by older grandchildren, or as a unique baby announcement to a grandparent-to-be.

She currently lives in Estes Park, Colorado, with her four kids, partner, and little furry sidekick named Mabel.
